What affected the Fund's performance this period?

- Global risk assets posted strong gains for the 12 months ending March 31, 2026, supported by healthy corporate fundamentals in several regions, a resilient global economy, robust corporate spending on artificial intelligence and dovish monetary policy from some central banks, though momentum faded in late February, as conflict in the Middle East took center stage.
- Against this backdrop, an overweight positioning in non-U.S. equities and investment performance among the underlying U.S. equity portfolio notably contributed to the fund's performance versus the composite index for the fiscal year. Also helping on a relative basis was an underweight positioning, on average, in U.S. investment-grade bonds.
- From an underlying portfolio standpoint, the largest individual relative contributor this period was an investment in Fidelity® Series Sustainable U.S. Markets Fund (+21.93%), which outpaced its benchmark, the MSCI USA IMI ESG Focus Dynamic Weighted Index (+18.10%) for the 12 months.
- Also contributing was Fidelity® Series Sustainable Emerging Markets Fund (+34.95%), which topped the 29.50% return of its benchmark, the MSCI EM ESG Focus Index.
- In contrast, investment performance in the underlying non-U.S. developed-markets equities portfolio detracted from the Fund's relative result. Here, Fidelity® Series Sustainable Non-U.S. Developed Markets Fund (+19.09%) trailed its benchmark, the MSCI World ex USA ESG Focus Index (+22.24%).
- An overweight allocation to long-term U.S. Treasury bonds also hurt the Fund's relative performance this period.

Application of FMR's environmental, social, and governance (ESG) ratings process and/or its sustainable investing exclusion criteria may affect the Fund's exposure to certain issuers, sectors, regions, and countries and may affect the Fund's performance.
